

RMCC Phi Theta Kappa “Hunt For Literacy”

RMCC's Beta Eta Upsilon Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) hosted a "Hunt for Literacy" on the College Campus April 1. Six area preschool classes participated in story time, a coloring station, and hunted for approximately 2000 candy filled eggs on the front lawn of campus.

According to Michael Cox, RMCC History Instructor/PTK Advisor, the goal of "Hunt for Literacy" was to expose children to the College and to the value of education. Cox also stated donations from local businesses and individuals helped make it possible to give out 97 bags of children's books and other educational materials to members of the preschool classes.
